

DEMI

Suffolk sheep

Demi is a Suffolk sheep. Demi came to the RSPCA after Inspectors found her on a farm with baling twine wrapped around her back foot. The twine had cut into her foot and damaged the circulation.

Surgery was required to remove the twine, and while her foot is now disfigured and needs regular trimming, thankfully it does not cause her discomfort.

Demi is shorn twice a year and at each shearing yields approximately 3 kilograms.

A female sheep is called a ewe, a male sheep is a ram and a castrated male sheep is a wether.
